Send a participant to evaluate this two-day workshop.

The challenge that most organisations face is not that people are unable to do their jobs, but rather that they often do not get along with one another. People problems waste time and energy, and negatively impact productivity, performance and profitability.

This workshop will help you build a high performance environment by helping your team develop effective working relationships, which foster high levels of trust, respect, loyalty and integrity.

Our next public workshop runs on 11-12 March 2003, at the Macquarie Graduate School of Management, North Ryde, Sydney.
